

NATIONAL CENTER for INTERPROFESSIONAL
PRACTICE and EDUCATION

Become a Member Today

American Interprofessional Health Collaborative Come Together, Learn and Grow

Join a community of professionals committed to interprofessional practice and education. The American Interprofessional Health Collaborative (AIHC) inspires colleagues and creates opportunities to come together, learn and grow.

As the professional community of the National Center, AIHC contributes to better health and improved outcomes by redesigning how the health care workforce is trained and how care is organized and delivered.

AIHC members work locally, nationally and internationally to develop and share best practices and resources, conduct research, mentor and support colleagues and remove barriers to effective action.

Why should you join AIHC?

By joining this community of leaders, educators and health professionals, you can be a part of our journey to improved healthcare and outcomes through collaboration, practice and education.

Connect – Build relationships with other health professionals who share your passion for interprofessional practice and education and understand the field and its challenges.

Gain new knowledge – Learn more about interprofessional best practices and new models at conferences, through webinars and during networking events.

Share expertise – Take advantage of opportunities to share what you know and what you have learned. Contribute to the growing body of knowledge about the field.

Grow – Get involved in AIHC mentoring and leadership development programs to enhance your career and advance the field.

Drive change – Engage actively in this dynamic, professional community to accelerate implementation of interprofessional strategies in both educational and clinical settings.

Learn more and join online at aihc-us.org/membership

Who Should Join?

We are inclusive and unbiased, inviting all to join our journey and share the new knowledge we generate together. AIHC is open to individuals who are interested in transforming health in the United States through interprofessional collaboration. Members may include:

- Health care team members
- Health professions educators
- Organizational and institutional leaders
- Public health professionals
- Care coordinators
- Patients, family and caregivers
- Community representatives
- Policymakers
- Emerging health professionals

Member Benefits

★ Career Advancement

- Engagement in an interprofessional community of practice
- Opportunities for national- and international-level service through committee involvement
- Involvement in the AIHC/National Center Mentorship program
- National service awards for interprofessional engagement

★ Collaboration and Connection

- Exclusive member-only activities including webinars, special programming, and events at national meetings
- Collaboration and connection with other AIHC members and organizations

★ Additional Perks

- Advance notice and reduced conference registration fees
- Online access to learning tools, informational resources and current research in the field of interprofessional practice and education
- Participation in members-only forums and other leadership development opportunities
- Regular members-only communications and updates

What is the Cost?

AIHC memberships are valid from July 1-June 30. Institutional memberships consist of five memberships for the price of four. Individuals seeking community partner membership should email aihc@umn.edu for details.

Institutional Membership	$700
Professional Membership	$175
Student Membership	$30
Community Partner	$0

